Flooding danger begins to pass in Manitoba as water levels decline

Assiniboine River. Province declared a state of emergency, but evacuation orders in Delta Beach were lifted Thursday

Flood fears were easing in much of southern Manitoba Thursday, as the Assiniboine River started to subside near Portage la Prairie.

"We have hit crest, the waters are declining. The good news really is the degree to which the preparation certainly is paying off," the province's emergency measures minister Steve Ashton said six days after the province declared a state of emergency and called in the military.

Since last Friday, hundreds of thousands of sandbags have been placed around homes. Dikes and riverbanks were reinforced and monitored with high-tech surveillance equipment. Across the province, more than 700 people were forced out of their homes — the vast majority as a precaution due to the possibility their local roads might be washed out.

As the river crested near Portage overnight, both the Assiniboine River and the Portage diversion, a channel that diverts excess water from the river to Lake Manitoba, were near capacity. A small leak in a bank on the Assiniboine was detected and fixed, but other than that, the defences held.

Evacuation orders in Delta Beach north of Portage la Prairie were lifted Thursday morning.

Manitoba often experiences some flooding in the spring. This year has been different in that flooding arose in the summer due to severe rainfall amounts upstream in Saskatchewan at the end of June.

The second crest is expected to hit Brandon this weekend at levels slightly above the first crest but below the level in 2011, when lowlying homes were evacuated as a precaution.

Ashton said recent upgrades to Brandon's dikes and other defences were expected to be more than enough to keep back the second crest.

"We're essentially protecting to the flood of record, which is 2011, and we already have a lot of that in place."

The second crest will not be much of a problem in Portage and other areas downstream from Brandon, Ashton said, because tributaries to the Assiniboine in the region have been dropping and the river has more room to absorb the extra flow.

Farmers 'have seen their resolve to go on really shaken'

Farm groups say Manitoba, Saskatchewan and neighbouring U.S. states need to work together on a long-term solution to flooding.

Doug Chorney, with Keystone Agricultural Producers, said it's one thing if a farmer has to deal with too much water on his land, but the problem is worse if water is also coming from 100 farms upstream.

Chorney suggests there should be more structures built to store water and points to work being done by the Red River Basin Commission in North Dakota.

"It's deliberate storage of water to not only protect local residents, but also reduce the flow of water during peak floods at the Canadian border by 20 per cent," Chorney said from Brandon, Man., where members of Manitoba's Keystone group met Thursday to talk about the recent flooding.

Norm Hall, president of the Agricultural Producers Association of Saskatchewan, said there has been a lot of talk that farmers draining their land in Saskatchewan added to the flooding in Manitoba. But Hall said many areas in Saskatchewan hit by torrential rain nearly two weeks ago were already saturated to the point where rivers and creeks were running high.

An aerial view of the flooding in the Crooked Lake area of Saskatchewan on July 6. COURTESY OF SASKATCHEWAN GOVERNMENT RELATIONS/THE CANADIAN PRESS

"Whether the land was drained or not, that water was running and so Manitoba is getting every drop of that rain."

Hall agrees with Chorney that a system-wide plan is needed to better manage the water.

Work is underway with the new Assiniboine River Basin Commission, which includes the Assiniboine, Qu'Appelle and Souris rivers.

Hall and Chorney said the work is essential.

Saskatchewan Agriculture estimated that between 809,000 and 1.2 million hectares of farmland in the province have been flooded and are unlikely to produce a crop.

Chorney said the flood is taking its toll on farmers, some of whom also lost their crop to high water in 2011.

"A lot of people have seen their resolve to go on really shaken," Chorney said.

Privacy. Insurers asked to stop seeking access to results of genetic tests

Canada's privacy watchdog is urging insurance companies and others to stop asking for access to the results of existing genetic tests.

Privacy Commissioner Daniel Therrien says it is becoming more of a challenge to protect people's genetic privacy with recent advances in science and technology.

"We are calling on the industry to refrain from asking for existing test results to assess insurance risk until the industry can clearly show that these tests are necessary and effective in assessing risk," Therrien said in a statement Thursday.

There are now hundreds of genetic tests available to help spot genes known to increase a person's risk of developing certain medical conditions.

But some people may decline tests for fear a positive result may mean they could face discrimination from insurance companies or their employers.

There are currently no laws in Canada that specifically prohibit genetic discrimination, although there appears to be broad political consensus around the issue.

The most recent Conservative throne speech promised to stop employers and insurance companies from discriminating against Canadians on the basis of genetic testing.

Last year, the Liberal leader in the Senate introduced legislation that would stop insurance companies and others from discriminating against people who are genetically susceptible to some diseases.

Past Conservative and Liberal election platforms pledged to stop discriminatory life insurance practices, while the New Democrats once introduced a private member's bill in the House of Commons to ban "genetic characteristics" as grounds for discrimination under the Canadian Human Rights Act.

Winnipeg is softening its stance on passengers who feel like singing aboard public-transit buses.

Even death can't tear this love for jazz apart

New York. Cemetery builds plots so jazz lovers can be buried near their favourite musicians

Some jazz fans are devoted to the very end.

At The Woodlawn Cemetery in the Bronx, so many jazz enthusiasts want to be buried near the graves of such greats as Miles Davis and Duke Ellington that the cemetery is developing new plots to meet the demand.

The cemetery is building about 2,275 new burial plots between the grave of Latin music star Celia Cruz and "Jazz Corner," the area where musicians Davis, Ellington, Lionel Hampton and Illinois Jacquet are buried.

"With the history of the Bronx and everybody that is planning ahead, we have a lot of requests to be close to Miles Davis and Celia Cruz," said cemetery executive director David Ison.

Pauline Smith, 74, bought a burial plot near Jazz Corner about three years ago. She is an avid jazz lover and throws regular parties where she hires jazz musicians to play at her home in New Rochelle.

"The music is in the earth and in the air and in the heavens," she said. "I love the idea that I could be continuing my love on the other side."

Earlier this year, the cemetery opened up 70 burial plots behind Davis' grave in Jazz Corner, separate from the new development, and almost all of them have already been sold.

The complex also includes a mausoleum finished in February with space for about 275 sets of remains and a starting price of $6,000 per plot. Four smaller buildings planned for the site do not have an estimated completion date.

The 400-acre cemetery, at about half the size of Central Park, is also the final resting place of such notables as journalist Joseph Pulitzer, women's rights pioneer Elizabeth Cady Stanton and composer Irving Berlin.

Pig threatens two children walking

Police in the Maine town of Oakland are looking for a pig that threatened two children walking through the woods.

Capt. Rick Stubbert told the Morning Sentinel that the children were walking along a trail in the wooded area between the local middle school and the high school at about 1:45 p.m. Tuesday when the pig confronted them "screaming at the kids and chasing them."

The children were so frightened they flagged down a police officer. Police did not disclose the children's age.

Officers, including animal control, responded to the scene, and although they found tracks that confirmed the pig was real, they didn't find the animal.

Group calls for ban on two chemicals in consumer goods

Great Lakes. Canadian Environmental Law Association urges ban on triclosan and triclocarban, which is in everything from soap to yoga mats

Canada should ban two antibacterial chemicals used in many consumer products that are accumulating in the waters of the Great Lakes, a report issued Thursday said.

The report, from the Canadian Environmental Law Association, also suggested Canada, the United States and all provinces and states bordering the Great Lakes should prohibit use of the chemicals and assess proposed alternatives before they are used.

The two products are triclosan and triclocarban, which are used alone and together in products such as toothpaste, body washes, bar soap and clothing. The chemicals are even found in yoga mats.

Used for decades, the chemicals have been coming under increasing scrutiny in recent years.

In December, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration announced it was reconsidering the safety of antibacterial soaps and other antibacterial personal care products because of concerns the chemicals they contain may disrupt human hormones and contribute to the development of antibiotic resistance.

Then in May, Minnesota made headlines when it banned triclosan. The report called triclosan a chemical of high concern and triclocarban a chemical that should be replaced with safer alternatives.

1 No bull. Great time of year for sports fans. Tennis, soccer and the greatest game of all: the annual running of the bulls in Pamplona, Spain. What could be better than eating a big breakfast, donning your finest whites with red scarf, and joining the world's craziest as they run down a narrow, cobbled, 850-metre corridor after someone unleashes a herd of bulls? In addition to the many injuries sustained every year, several people have actually been gored … to death. Ah, but for the ones who live, what a rush!

2 Bread basket. The NBA is in full free agency mode with several massive contracts waiting to be signed. Chris Bosh has been offered almost $90 million by the Rockets, the Knicks have a $129-million cheque on the table for Carmelo Anthony, and heaven only knows what will be thrown at LeBron James. So, the toughest decision really belongs to the league: a handful of players, or a medium-sized European country? Yeah, you know I'm right, but you also know they're going with the players.

3 Plane pizza. Severe weather forced a Denver-bound Frontier Airlines flight into an unscheduled landing that grounded them in Wyoming for two hours. As passengers grew restless, Capt. Gerhard Brandner called Domino's and footed the bill for 40 pizzas to be delivered right to the plane. That was all it took to make him a hero, as the morale of the entire plane turned around. Except, of course, for those seated near the lactose-intolerant. Bravo, anyway.

4 Miss-guidance. Air New Zealand attempted to entice passengers to oft-disregarded safety instructions by producing an in-flight video featuring bikini-clad models. Some patrons found the campaign distasteful, and it was dropped after thousands signed an online petition. And it wasn't just women complaining. Many of the men agreed, after watching it a few times, that it really did seem wrong.

5 For the dogs. The owner of Paws Natural Pet Emporium is on a 30-day diet consisting exclusively of pet food. She hopes to promote ingredient awareness, showing that what she sells is healthier than the food many Americans consume. Furthermore, she endorses an active lifestyle of running around in circles, and for hygiene, advocates licking yourself twice daily.

6 Bey for effort. The University of Victoria is offering a course that should elevate students culturally and artistically through its primary theme: Beyoncé. The class will be taught by Melissa Avdeeff, who has previously lectured on Justin Bieber and A Tribe Called Red, so you can expect some profound educational returns on those student bursaries. But it won't be an easy A, or at least I hope not, because I can already hear parents singing, "If you liked it then you shoulda got an A on it. Uh-oh, Uh-uh-oh."

7 Cool sunnings. To anyone looking for a spontaneous musical getaway, join me next week in Montego Bay for the 22nd Reggae Sumfest. Four nights of incomparable entertainment and sun-filled days on some of the nicest beaches in the world. This year, in addition to Reggae faves Popcaan, Sean Paul and dancehall legend Bounty Killa, Sumfest features Jason Derulo, Wiz Khalifa and this year's winner of The Voice, hometown champion, Tessanne Chin. A send-off fit for the king of Cambodia

Cambodia on Thursday began a three-day elaborate ceremony to transfer the ashes of the late King Father Norodom Sihanouk from the Royal Palace to a stupa in the opulent Silver Pagoda.

On the first day, people provided offerings of food to Buddhist monks in front of the Royal Palace in the morning; in the evening, about 3,000 Buddhist monks gathered in front of the Royal Palace to chant prayers.

King Norodom Sihamoni and his mother, former Queen Norodom Monineath, as well as Prime Minister Hun Sen and his cabinet members, observed the prayer rite inside the Royal Palace. According to the schedule, on the second day, the ashes will be marched along roads near the Royal Palace, and on the third day, they will be interred in a stupa in the Silver Pagoda in the compound of the Royal Palace.

About 20,000 people were expected to attend the 10-kilometre march of the late king's remains on Friday. The government allowed all civil servants and private company employees to take a day off on Friday in order to pay homage and to join the parade of moving the late King's remains. SHANGHAIDAILY.COM

Final wishes

King Father Norodom Sihanouk died at the age of 90 in Beijing on Oct. 15, 2012.

- The late king requested that all of his ashes be interred in the Silver Pagoda alongside the remains of his beloved daughter, Princess Kantha Bopha, who died of leukemia in 1952 at the age of four.

This ape flick is bananas

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Dawn of the Planet of the Apes opens this weekend. CONTRIBUTED

Dawn of the Planet of the Apes. Sci-fi simian movie swings between wild action and thought provoking drama

Richard: Mark, to riff off of the old Superman tag line, "You will believe an ape can speak." The special effects are amazing, but beyond the pixel manipulation that brings Caesar and company to vivid life, there are remarkable performances that, for lack of a better phrase, humanize the apes. These aren't the erudite apes of the Roddy McDowell era, with vocabularies that would impress even Conrad Black, but simian characters that behave somewhere midway between pure instinct and higher intelligence. I went bananas for the apes. You?

Mark: The apes may have limited vocabularies but they're a lot more interesting than the humans in the picture. This is a very sophisticated blockbuster that deals with our queasy relationship to the animal world and also acts as a metaphor for our need for civilized diplomacy. The post-apocalyptic world of a verdant but decaying San Francisco is visually plausible, and there are plot points worthy of a Greek tragedy. But enough about that. The apes are rad, man!

RC: It sure is a different kind of blockbuster. It has all the elements of the usual summer fare — it's a sequel, things blow up and, if that wasn't enough, also features an ape — but it takes risks. About half of it is done in ape sign language (with subtitles) and it's not chock-a-block with action. Instead it takes time building characters and motivations so when the wild ape-on-human action begins it feels earned and it feels epic.

MB: Ape-on-human? What about the fabulous ape-on-ape action? When these apes go at each other, it's feral and primitive. WWE, take note! And the ape sign language forces them to act with their eyes, which reminded me of the power of old silent films. I didn't need a bunch of clunky dialogue to know what these gorillas were thinking.

RC: I agree. I think this is the kind of performance that could convince the Academy to consider "motion capture" acting for inclusion in the Oscar acting categories.

Beyond the performances though, is a thought-provoking movie about race, gun usage and xenophobia. It's masked in allegory and, well, a story about talking apes, but it touches on those hot button topics in an interesting way.

MB: What is missing from the movie is James Franco, who brought some lightness and offhand charm to the last Apes movie. The apes are so strong in these films that the movie needs some star charisma to balance it out. Nevertheless, we've come a long way away from Bedtime for Bonzo.

Synopsis

Set 10 years after Rise of the Planet of the Apes saw Caesar (Andy Serkis) break free from a San Francisco primate sanctuary and start an ape uprising, the middle-aged chimpanzee is the leader of a large population of genetically evolved apes. Most of humankind was wiped out by a pandemic of ALZ-113—a "simian flu" virus that speeds up the rebuilding of brain cells in apes but is deadly to humans — but when a small band of humans scout a water source near the ape camp a monkey wrench is thrown into the fragile peace between homo sapiens and simians.

Boyhood. Director Richard Linklater talks about pulling off a story with the same cast year after year

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Boyhood follows one boy (Ellar Coltrane) as he develops over 12 years. CONTRIBUTED

Director Richard Linklater's new film, Boyhood, is a unique, 12-years-in-the-making experiment, shot in short bursts over a long span of time to follow one young man (Ellar Coltrane) as he develops. We were curious how he managed to pull that off.

With a movie like this, filmed in such a unique way, how did you decide when to end the story?
I always had it planned out, to end it when he goes off to college. I remember with that moment, the feeling like there was freedom over that hill. You know, leaving home, being out of high school. It's just different, felt like you were an adult or something. I always had that being the little denouement, I guess. I knew that for years. I didn't know the exact dialogue, but I knew that was the note to hit.

It's impressive that you had so much of it planned out for so long.
Yeah, not the exact dialogue but every character trajectory. And then we had the luxury of being able to think about it for a year each year.

Were there any discoveries or surprises along the way that made it necessary to course-correct?
The thing was such a little incremental collaboration — a collaboration with incremental growth for the characters and the culture and everything, so there was never anything insurmountable or any huge curveballs that came our way. It was all kind of predictable. Like, "OK, everybody's a year older." I got to kind of work through all that. So it was kind of as planned.

GoT takes Emmy Awards bid throne

Game of statuettes.
Fantasy series scores 19 nominations, leading Fargo and American Horror Story: Coven

The sprawling and bloodthirsty saga Game of Thrones, defying the Emmy Awards' begrudging respect for such fantasy fare, emerged as the leader in the nominations announced Thursday with 19 bids, including best drama series.

Other top nominees included a pair of ambitious miniseries, Fargo, with 18 bids, and American Horror Story: Coven, with 17. The AIDS drama The Normal Heart received 16 nominations, including best TV movie. The meth kingpin tale Breaking Bad got 16 bids for its final season, including best drama and a best actor nod for star Bryan Cranston.

The 66th Primetime Emmy Awards ceremony will have big-screen star power to spare. This year's Academy Awards best-actor winner Matthew McConaughey (Dallas Buyers Club) and nominee Chiwetel Ejiofor (12 Years a Slave) are both nominees for TV projects, as is past Oscar winner Julia Roberts.

In the competitive best-drama series category, Game of Thrones will compete with Breaking Bad, Downton Abbey, House of Cards, Mad Men and True Detective.

Whether HBO's Game of Thrones can take home the top trophy is another question: Only one fantasy or sci-fi series, Lost, has ever captured it, according to Tom O'Neil, author of The Emmys and organizer of the Gold Derby awards site.

Netflix's House of Cards, which made a breakthrough last year as the first online series nominated for a major award, has the chance again to grab Emmy gold.

Orange is the New Black, also from Netflix, leaped that barrier on the flip side this time around with a bid for best comedy series, along with a nod for star Taylor Schilling.

Also competing for best comedy honours are The Big Bang Theory, Louie, Silicon Valley, Veep, and Modern Family, a four-time winner that has the chance to tie Frasier as the all-time winning sitcom with one more award.

Orange is the New Black, a prison-set hybrid "dramedy," could have been entered in either the drama or comedy category, and the decision to go for the latter paid off.

Another category-buster is True Detective, the dark-hearted Southern drama that starred McConaughey and Woody Harrelson. It was entered in the series category although it had a close-ended story and its stars have indicated they don't plan on returning for the show's second season.

But the crime anthology qualifies as a series because of the "created by" credit given to Nic Pizzolatto by the Writers Guild of America, said John Leverence, the TV academy's senior vice-president for awards. That credit serves as a "marker" to help determine a program's first-year Emmy categorization, which can be ambiguous, Leverence said.

McConaughey and Harrelson both will vie for best drama actor honours, along with four-time winner Cranston for Breaking Bad, Jon Hamm for Mad Men, Kevin Spacey for House of Cards, and Jeff Daniels for The Newsroom, who won the Emmy last year.

Nominees in the lead actress drama category are last year's winner, Homeland star Claire Danes along with Lizzy Caplan for Masters of Sex, Michelle Dockery for Downton Abbey, Julianna Margulies for The Good Wife, Kerry Washington for Scandal and Robin Wright for House of Cards.

For comedy series, the lead actor nods went to Don Cheadle for House of Lies, Louis C.K. for Louie, Ricky Gervais for Derek, Matt LeBlanc for Episodes, William H. Macy for Shameless and Jim Parsons for The Big Bang Theory. Parsons won the Emmy last year.

Best actress comedy nominees besides Schilling were Lena Dunham for Girls, Edie Falco for Nurse Jackie, Melissa McCarthy for Mike & Molly, Amy Poehler for Parks and Recreation and last year's winner, Julia Louis-Dreyfus, for Veep.

The 66th Primetime Emmy Awards will air Monday, Aug. 25, on CTV, with emcee Seth Meyers. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Go Canada go!

The Calgary-shot drama Fargo landed a whopping 18 Emmy nominations on Thursday, and Canadians are sharing in the glory:

- Matt Lloyd of Calgary scored a nomination for outstanding cinematography on the FX Canada drama, while Jackie Lind — another Canuck — is up for outstanding casting for a miniseries.
- Based on the 1996 film by Joel and Ethan Coen, Fargo is also up for best miniseries, and received acting nods for Billy Bob Thornton, Martin Freeman and Allison Tolman.
- Other Canadian Emmy nominees include Degrassi for outstanding children's program and Toronto-raised Maurice LaMarche for outstanding character voice-over performance for Futurama (he's twice won the category).
- Barry Julien of Montreal, meanwhile, is among almost 20 people nominated on The Colbert Report for outstanding writing for a variety series.
- One notable Canadian omission Thursday was Orphan Black star Tatiana Maslany, who was snubbed in the lead dramatic actress category.

You'll get your dragons when Martin is damn well ready!

Bad news for Game of Thrones fans who are getting impatient waiting for author George R.R. Martin to finish the hit book series. He really doesn't want to hear your questions about when the next book will be out, so stop asking about it, you punk kids. Actually, Martin didn't put it that nicely: "I find that question pretty offensive, frankly, when people start speculating about my death and my health," he tells Swiss newspaper Tages-Anzeiger. "So f— you to those people." But since you asked, Martin admits that, at 65 years old, he's in no hurry to crank out more material. You'll get your dire wolves and dragons when he's damn well ready. "I have been slowing down. I don't know if it's the fact that I'm getting older — I think it's partly that," he says. "But I also think it's partly that the series is so much more successful that there's demands that come with success." I feel like we're going in circles here, George. So … when's the next book coming out? You're not getting any younger, you know.

Downey Jr. Jr.? RDJ and wife expecting baby girl

Here's a bit of good kid-related news for Robert Downey Jr. after his 20-year-old son, Indio, was arrested for cocaine possession last month: The Iron Man star announced via social media that he and wife Susan Downey are expecting another baby. He kept it pretty simple on Twitter with: "Yo. Susan. Me. Baby. Girl. November. Scorpio?" But on Facebook he got a little more effusive, writing, "Um. I don't know if it's a 'man's world,' but I'm certain women run it. Susan and I are therefore delighted to announce we are expecting a baby. Girl. November." The couple also has a two-year-old son, Exton.

Stone's single and ready to mingle

Sharon Stone showed up to Access Hollywood this week to talk about her charity work but ended up discussing her love life. Well played, Mario Lopez. But she at least had some important news to impart to any potential suitors out there: "I am available for dating," she told Lopez. "What's happened is my kids have reached the age where I feel comfortable to date. I didn't want to date when they were little … who needs a bunch of people running in and out of their lives? Now I feel comfortable dating."

Lobster rolls with a tarragon mayo twist

RICARDO COOKS
Chef Ricardo
Ricardo Magazine

When I'm making lobster, I always make more than enough to go around. Let's be honest: what's better than leftover lobster for lunch?

And although any seafood dish makes me happy, I have a soft spot for lobster rolls (with a bag of chips on the side).

They remind me of my first vacation on the East Coast with my wife.

Remoulade

1. In a bowl, combine all the ingredients.

2. Season with salt and pepper.

3. Refrigerate for at least 30 minutes.

Ingredients

Remoulade

- 3 cups (750 ml) celery root, peeled and cut into thin julienne
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) mayonnaise
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) lemon juice
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) chopped fresh tarragon
- 1 tsp (5 ml) capers, drained and finely chopped
- 1 tsp (5 ml) Dijon mustard
- 1/2 clove garlic, finely chopped
- 1/4 tsp (1 ml) Tabasco sauce, or to taste
- Salt and pepper

Lobster Rolls

- 4 hot dog buns, toasted
- Meat of 2 cooked lobsters, cooled and cut into chunks

Lobster Rolls

1. Fill the hot dog buns with remoulade and lobster pieces.

Note

- For a more classic remoulade, substitute the tarragon with flat-leaf parsley.
- And to serve as a salad, divide the remoulade on your choice of lettuce and garnish with pieces of lobster.

GM Popp signs 3-year extension

Speculation on Jim Popp's future with the Montreal Alouettes has been put to rest, at least for now.

The only general manager the CFL club has had since it returned to Montreal after a 10-year hiatus in 1996 signed a three-year contract extension on Thursday that runs through the 2017 season.

There was concern that the 49-year-old, who was in the final year of his contract, was ready to move on. But the Elkin, N.C., native said: "I plan to be here and fulfil my contract."

He did not say if his deal includes an out-clause if he is offered an NFL job. Rumours of a move south have arisen periodically throughout his tenure with the Alouettes.

Lewis ruled out for tilt vs. Argos

Already without the services of running back Jon Cornish, the Calgary Stampeders received more bad news just two days before Saturday's road game in Toronto against the Argonauts.

A day after leaving practice early, receiver Nik Lewis watched from the sidelines on Thursday.

"With Nik, unfortunately late in practice (Wednesday) he accidentally got hit in the head and is having some symptoms, so he's out of the game," said Calgary head coach John Hufnagel, who described Cornish's chances of playing this weekend as "slim and none." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hunger games: Raps want only winners

NBA free agency. Re-signing of Lowry solidifies hard-nosed nucleus of GM Ujiri's Toronto upstarts

Raptors general manager Masai Ujiri, left, and newly re-signed point guard Kyle Lowry speak to reporters on Thursday in Toronto. COLIN MCCONNELL/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

There is a trait Masai Ujiri seeks out more than any other in the players he covets for the Raptors, something far more important to him than dribbling or shooting, passing or defence.

He will open the vault to find those who possess it, he will take risks because he sees it dormant in some players, ready to be developed over time.

It is impossible to define but it's led him to make subtle changes and key additions to a 2014-15 roster now almost fully formed.

"I don't like guys who cut corners or try to go the easy route," the president and general manager said Thursday while officially announcing the return of point guard Kyle Lowry and a couple of other additions to the team.

"These guys work hard ... and you know what?"

"I don't pay players, I don't pay stats, I try to pay winners. And that's what you want to do. It's not like they've done it for many years but it's a great start for us."

Ujiri's work is all but done with Thursday's official announcements that Lowry is back on a four-year, $48-million deal, joined by backup point guard Greivis Vasquez and one-time Raptor James Johnson at small forward.

There may be room for one more transaction but the majority of the work is done.

The tweaking of the roster hasn't meant huge substantial changes but the subtle ones may be good enough.

Lowry said he had an offer from the Houston Rockets, accompanied by phone calls from Dwight Howard and Chandler Parsons, and he had contact with the Miami Heat during the free-agent negotiation process.

But the chance to improve with a young roster, and to lead it, was more than he could turn down. It speaks to where the Raptors are as a franchise — growing, not there yet but promising — that the chance to lead a group was more enticing to Lowry than the chance to join a legitimate contender.

"I knew the money was going to come, the years were going to come," he said of the deal that makes him the highest-paid player on the roster. "I wanted to be in a place I could win and grow.

"This organization, from top to bottom, is an unbelievable first-class organization and I want to be a part of it and do something special."

Rookie Argo back thrust into starting role

He's just two games into his CFL career, but halfback Anthony Coombs is no longer a rookie in the eyes of Toronto Argonauts' coach Scott Milanovich.

The former University of Manitoba star will make his first CFL start Saturday night when Toronto hosts the Calgary Stampeders. Coombs, the Argonauts' 2014 first-round draft pick, replaces veteran slotback Andre Durie, who suffered a broken clavicle in last weekend's 48-15 home win over the Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Coombs, 21, was impressive in his first extended CFL action. The five-foot-nine, 190-pound Winnipeg native ran for 52 yards on six carries, added a 17-yard reception and blocked effectively in pass protection against the Riders.

"So far he hasn't shown that he can't handle it."

Argos coach Scott Milanovich on Anthony Coombs' ascent to the starting lineup

"Essentially he was the starter last week so it shouldn't be a real shock for him," said Milanovich, the Argos' head coach. "He's going to kind of be in a new spot but he played some of that in the pre-season.

"We expect him to play well. He's been here a couple of weeks, he's no longer a rookie. We expect him to do his job."

Coombs was selected third overall in the most recent CFL draft after running for 2,218 yards and 17 touchdowns at Manitoba while adding 51 receptions for 840 yards and 11 TDs. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oakland's Kazmir leaves Giants swinging at air

MLB. San Francisco's losing streak continues against Bay Area rivals

All-Star Scott Kazmir capped the best first half of his career with one of his best starts yet.

Kazmir struck out nine in seven scoreless innings to help the Oakland Athletics win the annual Bay Bridge series by beating the San Francisco Giants 6-1 on Thursday.

"I felt good from Pitch 1," Kazmir said. "I felt comfortable. I was able to get some quick outs and use all of my pitches."

Josh Donaldson hit a two-run homer and Stephen Vogt drove in three runs for the A's, who won three of four in the two-city series that began Monday night in Oakland. The A's (58-34) have won seven of eight overall and have matched the best start in Oakland history.

Tim Hudson (7-6) was unable to make it out of the sixth inning and lost his fourth straight decision for the floundering Giants.

San Francisco has lost 15 of its past 19 home games and hasn't won consecutive games here in more than a month.

"We're not playing nearly the kind of baseball we want to play, for sure," Hudson said. "We just have to improve in a number of different areas."

Kazmir (11-3) got the best of a heralded matchup against Hudson, allowing three hits and one walk. Kazmir has allowed one run or no runs in 11 of 19 starts this season, for a 2.38 ERA. He is just two wins shy of matching his career best set in 2007 in Tampa Bay.

Olympian frustration

Phelps eager to get back in the swim of things

Michael Phelps has never been the patient type.

He wants to go faster — right now.

The winningest athlete in Olympic history figured he would be putting up better times by this stage of his comeback.

"That's the hard part for him," his longtime coach, Bob Bowman, said Thursday.

Beginning Friday, Phelps will take part in three events over three days, another important step in showing how fit he is since coming out of retirement.

In less than a month, he'll be competing in the national championships in Irvine, Calif., followed two weeks later by the Pan Pacific Championships in Australia.

"It helps Michael a lot to race," Bowman said. "That's what he really loves to do. If he's just training, it gets a little old."

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Your energy may take a bit of a dip but you are still on red hot form. Limit yourself to what is truly important. Nothing matters more than your No. 1 aim.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
The more someone criticizes you the more determined you will be to carry on with what you are doing.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
There is no point worrying about things over which you have no control. The good news is that even if you lose out you will still win in some way.
